

Y STORE!!!
EPOT!!!

Conclusion to sell off his can ever was not in title experience I have ble sixpence is better y entire stock at the
is but a small part of

Onions, Beans, Butter,
Candles, Rice, Chili
powders, Pearl Barley,
an Tartar, Stewart's
sins, Honey, Oysters, Nutmegs, Salt, Soap,

are, Tinware, Stoves,
screws, shovels, picks, e, spoons, nails, quick-lines, tacks, Congress
ews, percussion caps,
lacking, coffee pots,
tles, cow bells, etc.
d, red lead, venetian
e, boiled oil, lamp oil, l varnish brushes, etc.
a general assortment melon seeds by the e, writing paper, en-

ot hooks, bed cords,
tumbler, etc.
per and bordering, a ria, if you don't bees (you will have to atronage thus far be-lon to my customers,

of the heart.

anted, for which the all coin.

G. ROTH.

onage heretofore be-continuance of favors will conduce to the may choose to make
t abode. The Ex-
ill convey passengers street, a few doors
s, and directly oppoent of "B. D. Sing-
th the hotel grounds
livery.

E. MCKINSTRY.

NATIONAL HOTEL, Bowers & Herbert proprietors, Washington street, upper town.

D. GRIDLEY, Michigan boarding house, opposite the Eagle hotel, main street.

EAGLE HOTEL, Lee McKinstry, proprietor, main street.

FOSTER HOTEL, stony point, main street, Placerville, California.

PHILADELPHIA HOUSE, Keyser & O'Neil proprietors, main street.

BROADWAY HOUSE, J. R. Prindle, Broadway, upper town.

CHILD & WORTHEN, dealers in drugs, medicines, paints, oils, etc., main street, a few doors above the round tent.

A. U. BARRY & CO., successors of H. A. Cagwin & co, auction and commission. Rooms south side main street, opposite Philadelphia house.

ARCADE BAKERY, Hume & McCall, one door east of the Philadelphia house.

F. F. BARSS, watch-maker and jeweller. Office opposite Hunter & co.'s Express office.

T. S. MITCHELL & CO., dealers in boots, shoes, hats, caps, hosiery and gloves, main street.

FOUNTAIN & TALLMAN, soda manufacturers, stony point.

SLOANE & LITTLE, dealers in mining implements, dry goods, clothing, groceries and provisions, upper town.

THE POINT STORE, Osborne & Cummings, groceries, provisions, etc., etc.

G. L. & J. E. COLE, carpenters and builders, shop main street, next door above the Cedar ravine house.

H. HOLLISTER & CO., steam saw mill, head of main street, upper town.

SAMUEL WHITWORTH, wholesale and retail dealer in groceries and miners' supplies, main street, opposite the Herald office.

NEW YORK STORE.—A. B. Andrus, grocery and provision, corner Washington and Market street, upper town.

ALFRED BELL, dealer in gold dust, baker, etc., corner of main street and Oregon lane.

SOUTH FORK STORE, Doan & McEean, dealers in dry goods, groceries, provisions, liquors, etc., corner of Washington and Market sts., north side.

JOHN STROHL, carpenter and builder, shop north side of Broadway, upper town.

ROBINSON & BULLARD, dealers in gold dust, groceries and provisions, main street.

GEO. G. LAMBERT & CO., brick store, stony point, wholesale and retail dealers in groceries, provisions and liquors.

REYNOLDS & SON, dealers in gold dust, groceries and provisions, main street.

PRICE & TOMLINSON, wholesale and retail merchants, corner of Broadway and Washington street, upper town.

torch we had provided in order to avoid contact with the rocky sides of the passage; there was no difficulty in advancing, as there seemed no increase in the size of the smooth though heavy swells setting into the mountain.

Suddenly we came to where the roof was distinctly visible, and but a few rods further, so great was its depression, that standing we could touch the ends of some of the larger stalactite. There was no apparent diminution in the width of the cave.— Slowly and cautiously advancing, our torch-light gleaming before us, we saw but a few feet in advance, a stony bank or beach upon which the surf broke with much force, the water being shallow; as it appeared to have considerable extent of surface, and our ardor for further discovery much cooled, though as yet we knew nothing of the origin of the sounds, that, as we advanced, only increased in volume, we resolved to make the landing, and if nothing like a solution of the cause could be obtained without a further advance in our canoe, in case an opening offered, to return, leaving it for others to explore more adventurous than ourselves.
By getting into the water, which here was not two foot deep, and watching our opportunity between the swells, rushed our canoe to the shore and secured it above the reach of the surf. On examination we found the beach to extend only about half way across the cavern, and turning, ran almost parallel with its sides, giving about fifty feet in width of level surface entirely covered with fallen stalac-tite and innumerable fish bones. The other half is a continuation of the water portion, and along which sweeps, at intervals of a few seconds, the strange and ceaseless swell of water; and this is the character of the cave for nearly fifty rods further on, when the roof, by gradual depression, is brought down lower and lower, until it reaches the surface of the rolling swells shutting off all further work $50

firing
impr
mule
man
fore
is a f
caugh
the n
The
moun which silver
works
world

THE
son, a
inst.—
many dente
and b
Lara
witha
had fi mie, v
ly, an yond
mount places that t
wagon
repres

A fi
The fi
miles
ney th
the re
stant, 905 w
head
sheep.
the m
of sto
routes
Fort A