Consul Bee Tells How the Good
Philanthropists of the East Are Enticing Away the Chinese.

Consul Bee informed a CHRONICLE reporter yesterday that during the past twelve months more than 3000 Chinamen have left this city for the Eastern States. New Mexico has absorbed quite a number of Chinese during the past three years. So has Oregon and the Northern Territories, but these amount to nothing when compared with the East.

"How do you account for this sudden change?" was asked.

"I account for it in this way," continued the Chinese Consul. "You see during the past five or six years excursion parties, delegations and others have visited San Francisco. Among these parties were quite a number of Boston ladies, who for the first time in their lives came in actual contact with the Chinese people. They visited their stores and places of business and were much taken with the Chinese.

"The result is that overtures have been made to the Chinese to go East and settle in the various cities and towns. New England property-owners have offered houses for rent to the Chinese business men, and besides every inducement has been made by ladies who prefer Chinese as domestic help to others in the same line."

"How many do you think have gone East within the past two years?"

"Well, I have not the exact figures here, but from the information obtainable from the several Chinese companies I would be safe in saying that over 8000 Chinese have taken their departure from San Francisco during the past two years. Those who have gone East write back giving a favorable account of their reception, and every letter received in this city takes away from six to twelve Chinese."
